We are emerging from one of the most difficult years for many of us, and it's time to spread a little bit of positivity on campus. This workshop guides you through the development of an original piece of creative art meant to be shared with strangers on campus. From ideation to creation, this workshop is designed to get you thinking of original and inspirational messages of your own. This workshop was developed through the Center for Creativity as part of a partnership with the Random Note Project to help students, faculty, and staff to put their own unique twist on this note sharing campaign.

Break Your Creative Blocks!
